To whom it may concern,

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge College Woks Painting and the programs extraordinary abilities. The companies internship program may be initially complex and ambiguous, however it is with good reason. The program is incredibly distinctive in nature and differs from a typical college internship. The program resembles a fast paced, hands-on business/economics course which teaches students the basic aspects of selling and management. Students are immersed in a real world environment where in order to succeed they must create a clientele, hire employees, and learn how to manage expenses while simultaneously attending a University. Calling the program a challenge is an understatement, however for those exhibiting a desire and ambition to succeed can expect to prosper financially and mentally by participating in this program.

When I participated in the College Works internship program in 2007 I was able run a successful branch and acquired a substantial financial gain. I enjoyed the program very much as it was quite a unique and prolific experience. Additionally, the individuals affiliated with the program were incredibly intellectual and highly competent people who never lost sight of there goals. It is for these reasons I highly recommend the program for focused and driven individuals looking for an extraordinary experience of a lifetime.

Sincerely,

Michael Pearl
