

To Brian Moaddeli:

I'd like to thank you and the entire College Works team for making this year a turning point in my life. As I sat with you during our first interview, you promised one thing: personal growth. That became my motivation for doing the internship, and I grew much more than I had ever expected. As my mom pointed out to me midway through the summer, I matured four years in the span of one as an intern with College Works.

Through College Works, I cultivated skills I never knew existed within me. With my hands-on experience, I learned more about business than I could have with any other company. From marketing and sales to customer satisfaction and workmanship, the College Works program covers all aspects of the business world. Beyond that, I learned the value of business and personal integrity, how to keep my life in balance through time management, and that hard work and perseverance really pay off.

You came through with your promise, Brian, and I really do appreciate all the work you put into developing college students such as myself. I wish you the best of luck with your visions for College Works as well as all the rest of your businesses. I hope to keep in touch with you in the future.
