

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Alex Wyczalkowski and I have recently finished my internship with College Works Painting. After having a very successful year, I would like to thank everyone in College Works, especially my DM Zach Matush and the head of our division, Lulu Deng, for the opportunity they have provided me. I have worked very hard, put in long hours and made a good amount of money. But most importantly, I have gained a great deal of business experience. I feel that this is a great internship for any student willing to put in effort and learn a lot about running a business. I hope this letter can guide students who are considering working for the company.

College Works Painting is not for everyone. It takes a lot of work, dedication, and persistence. Be prepared for one of the greatest challenges of your life. That being said, when it is all done, you will look back and be proud of what you did. There will be times when you want to quit. There will be times when you want to stop working. However, there is a great support system in place to push you on.

When you are done with the summer, you will have learned so much that will help you throughout the rest of your life. One of the most important things I've learned is how to be able to leverage and balance your life. One of the most satisfying parts of this internship is when you are able to start to focus your time on things you enjoy other than work, but still be able to have a successful business running.

In addition to everything you learn you will have a competitive advantage over all of your peers at school. How many students can say that they have successfully ran a business? Your resume will look great, and you will also be ready for interviews. You will know what businesses look for in great employees, because you have employed people yourself.

College Works Painting has been one of the most challenging experiences of my life. It was also one of the most rewarding. I have absolutely no regrets about working for the company this past summer, and I look forward to applying the skills I've learned into further pursuits. If you are up for the challenge, run your own business this summer. I guarantee you will not regret it.

Sincerely,

Alex Wyczalkowski
